Adam Beverly | Radios & Navigation | Released 1 June '16 | Words/music by Adam Beverly

Adam Beverly's 3rd solo album "Radios & Navigation" puts the troubadour he is on center stage. The songs are based on his tenor voice and his acoustic guitar...the sound that has brought him to hundreds of concerts in various corners of the world.

"Radios & Navigation" is full of vocal harmonies, acoustic instruments and honest lyrics. Danish singer Rikke Madsen plays Adam's female counterpart throughout the album, while Casper L. Thomsen (guitar/vocal) and Toke Knudsmark (bas) play steady and creative roles throughout the album.

"Radios & Navigation" is mixed and mastered by his long-time friend and Emmy award winning producer BZ Lewis of Studio 132 in Oakland, California. Moreover, Lewis is co-producer on the album.

Adam's 2013 rock album Backcourse landed 2 European radio singles and came as quite a surprise for many of his listeners. They missed the singer-songwriter presence that Adam has on stage - the intimate lyrics, the honest smile and the acoustic guitar in the middle of it all. Listeners who appreciate Adam's acoustic presence on stage should enjoy "Radios & Navigation".

Since going solo in mid-2011 he has played well over 100 concerts (including a live performance on Danish National Radio) and has had three European radio singles. Moreover, prior to "Radios & Navigation", he has released two albums, a six-song EP and two singles.

The album is available on iTunes, Spotify, YouTube and of course on Adam's official webpage.
